EnQuest wins 'Excellence in Decommissioning' award

EnQuest (or the 'Group') is proud to announce that it has won the Offshore Energies UK ('OEUK') award for Excellence in Decommissioning in recognition of its sector-leading work on the Heather Decommissioning Project.

This is the second time in four years that EnQuest has been awarded this prestigious industry accolade, following recognition for the successful project to remove the Northern Producer Floating Storage Unit from the Dons field in 2022.

This award is further validation of EnQuest's established top-quartile decommissioning performance, which has seen the Group complete the plugging and abandonment of more than 90 North Sea wells in the past four years and, as part of the Heather project, execute the heaviest lift in the basin this year. Being honoured in this way is a testament to the expertise and commitment that exists within EnQuest's dedicated in-house decommissioning team and recognises the Group's strategy to prioritise decommissioning work on an integrity risk basis, with a clear focus on minimising risk to human life and the environment.

In delivering the award at a ceremony in St Andrews, and while rightly lauding the efforts of all finalists across the various award categories, OEUK noted that EnQuest has "set an exemplary benchmark for safety and cost performance", "demonstrating industry-leading efficiency."

Tulip said: "The Heather Decommissioning Project rightly stands as a North Sea exemplar, putting into practice the learnings that the EnQuest team have derived from a sustained period of high performance. This award is the culmination of years of planning and execution work, and I am immensely proud of my colleagues across EnQuest, as well as our JV partners, key contractor Allseas and the wider project support network."
